Bill Redban is a true original. A skateboarding pioneer, a punk rock icon, and a co-founder of the groundbreaking media company, VICE, Redban has lived a life that is as fascinating as it is influential.

In his new book, Hutch Halfpipe, Redban tells the story of his life, from his early days as a skateboarding prodigy to his rise to fame as a punk rock star and media mogul. Along the way, he shares his insights on the culture of skateboarding, the power of punk rock, and the importance of following your dreams.

The Early Years

Bill Redban was born in Los Angeles in 1963. He was introduced to skateboarding at a young age, and he quickly became one of the most talented skateboarders in the world. In 1981, he won the prestigious Vans World Championships, and he went on to become one of the most respected skateboarders of his generation.

The Punk Rock Years

In the early 1980s, Redban became involved in the punk rock scene. He played in several bands, including the influential hardcore band, Black Flag. Redban's punk rock music was as raw and powerful as his skateboarding, and he quickly became one of the most popular punk rock stars in the world.

The Birth of VICE

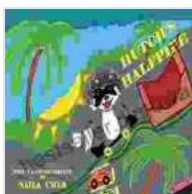

In 1994, Redban co-founded VICE, a groundbreaking media company that has become one of the most influential voices in youth culture. VICE started out as a skateboarding magazine, but it has since expanded into a global media empire that includes a website, a television network, and a record label.

Hutch Halfpipe

Hutch Halfpipe is the definitive biography of Bill Redban. It is a fascinating and inspiring story of a man who followed his dreams and changed the world. Redban's story is a reminder that anything is possible if you have the courage to follow your heart.

Hutch Halfpipe is a must-read for anyone who is interested in skateboarding, punk rock, or the media. It is a fascinating and inspiring story of a man who has lived a life that is as unique as it is influential. Redban's story is a reminder that anything is possible if you have the courage to follow your heart.
