Trail 1: Badwater Basin Loop Trail

Immerse yourself in the lowest point in North America as you explore the Badwater Basin Loop Trail. This easy 2-mile loop winds through the surreal landscape of the salt flats, presenting a mesmerizing expanse of crystallized minerals that shimmer beneath the desert sun. Capture stunning photographs and soak in the unique beauty of this otherworldly environment.

Trail 2: Natural Bridge Trail

Marvel at a geological marvel on the Natural Bridge Trail. This short and accessible 1-mile loop leads to a magnificent natural sandstone arch, formed by centuries of erosion. As you gaze upon this awe-inspiring structure, imagine the forces that shaped it over time. Cool off with a dip in Travertine Spring before completing your loop.

Trail 3: Zabriskie Point Trail

Ascend Zabriskie Point Trail for breathtaking views of the multi-hued badlands and Furnace Creek Wash. This moderate 1.5-mile round-trip trail leads to an elevated viewpoint that offers a panorama of the park's diverse geological formations. Allow ample time to capture the ever-changing colors of the landscape, especially at sunrise and sunset.

Trail 4: Golden Canyon Trail

Embark on a journey through the heart of Golden Canyon on this 2.5-mile loop. The trail meanders along a sandy wash, flanked by towering canyon walls that glow with golden hues. As you ascend through the canyon, you'll encounter hidden oases and unique geological formations that will leave you in awe.

Trail 5: Mosaic Canyon Trail

Discover a hidden canyon of colorful rocks on the Mosaic Canyon Trail. This moderate 3-mile loop leads to a narrow gorge with sheer walls adorned with a vibrant mosaic of minerals. Scramble over boulders and explore the depths of the canyon, discovering its hidden nooks and crannies. Be prepared for some light rock climbing along the way.
